Miss Mary McCormack of Rutland Sues Rose Gonyea for $3,000.

Rutland, Sept. 4.-Miss Mary McCormack of the town of Rutland, a school teacher in the public schools of this city, has brought suit in Rutland county court against Rose Gonyea, her neighbor, to recover $3,000 for alleged slander. She claims that the defendant has persistently repeated language derogatory to the reputation of the plaintiff as a public teacher.

Middlebury Football.

Middlebury, Sept. 4. Owing to the unsettled condition of college athletics due to the war, the Middlebury college football schedule has been altered. Middlebury will carry out its schedule as outlined below, as far as possible. Several games have been cancelled, but others have been arranged to fill their places. Dartmouth has taken the place of Brown, scheduled for Oct. 13. Middlebury will meet Tufts instead of Massachusetts Ag- P ricultural college. The date on which the Middlebury-Vermont game was C scheduled is open owing to the cancella- |C tion of Vermont's football schedule. Sev. B eral of last year's team will return to sollege and the outlook is good.
